However, when the matter came up before the senate caucus yesterday evening, it was decided to amend the resolution so as to commend Presiden; McKinley for offering his assistance in bringing about an honorable peace between Great Britain and the Boer republics, and it was this amendment which was presented by Oleson of Cuming at the afternoon session, which brought forth considerable discussion from both sides of the house and finally resulted in the resolutions as amended being adopted by a strict party vote. Young of Stanton spoke in behalf of its adoption and Ransom of Douglas and Miller of Buffalo against it. Both gentlemen were heartily in favor of expressing sympathy for the Boers, but their partisanship was so strong that they could not vote to commend President McKinley for doing the very thing they were themselves in favor of. The resolution, as amended and adopted, is as follows: Resolved, by the senate of the state of Ne-braska. That we view with profound zorrow and deepest concern the attempt of Great Britain to destroy the republics of South Africa, and the devastation that has been carried against those people struggling to maintain their independence as a nation and their homes and firesides as citizens of a free government, and we declare our heartfelt sympathy for them in their heroic efforts against everwhelming odds. And we also endorse the action of President Me-Kinley in offering his triendly assistance to bring about an honorable peace between Great Britain and these republics of South Africa.

At the morning session, after roll call and prayer by Chaplain Cressman, Harlan of York submitted the following report of the committee on rules, which was adopted: 'To amend rule 49 by increasing the membership of the committee on mines and mining from twelve to fifteen; by increasing the membership of the committee on claims from five to seven, and by adding a new committee of nine members to be called redistricting and apportionment.

The committee on standing committees then made its report, which was adopted, the committees and chairmen being the same as printed in this morning's Bee. Upon a motion by Currie of Custer, W. J. Moran was named as a messenger in the office of the secretary of state, to serve during the time the legislature remains in session. Upon motion of Oleson of Cuming, J. H. Naden was employed as a clerk of the judiciary committee.

A resolution introduced by Fellars, fusionist of Richardson county, endorsing the proposed plan of electing United States senators by direct vote of the people, was, on motion of Mockett of Lancaster, referred with-Is Still Going On out debate to the committee on federal, relations. The resolution was quite lengthy and asserted many reasons why the existing plan should be abandoned. Attention was first called to the fact that other state legislatures, several political conventions, representative bodies, as well as the national house of representatives, had endorsed such a plan. The next reason urged in the "whereas" portion was that the national house of representatives, had endorsed such a plan. The next reason urged in the "whereas" portion was that the stancard of intelligence among voters of the country was high enough to enable them to wisely select for themselves their United States senators. The resolution provided further that if the application for a constitutional convention passed both houses a copy of it should be sent to the secretary of state of each of the United States, one to the speaker of the national house of representatives and one to the president of the national senate.

The speaker announced the appointment of standing committees and then called Mr. McCarthy of Dixon to the chair. A list of clerk and employes of the house was read, which completed all business in the regular order up to the introduction of bills.

When the presiding officer called, "Introduction of bills," a dozen men instantly arose and asked for recegnition. Each had one or more bills in an outstretched hand and were anxious to have them recorded with as small a number as possible. Mockett of Lancaster was the first man recognized by the chairman and his bill, providing for free high school attendance, was the first one read.

Nurses Indicted for Manslanghter. NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The grand jury today handed up indictments against Clinton Marshall, J. R. Dean and Eugene Davis, the Bellevue nurses, for manslaughter in the first degree in the killing of Louis Hilliard. After Hillard's death it was found that several of his ribs were broken and it was alleged that he received all of his injuries in Bellevue hospital.

HARKEN YE!

To the Voice of Omaha People. If you will but listen to your friends and neighbors, they will tell you how the pains and aches of a back, the annoyance of urinary troubles, the acryousness, the restlessness which come, from kidney ills can be relieved and cured. Read what one Omaha citizen says:
